

A JOURNEY THROUGH OUR “SPECIAL” EDUCATION:

CHALLENGES & TRIUMPHS™

Join Lainie Donnell, M.A., and Elizabeth Lutsky, M.A., two professional Educational Therapists/Learning Specialists, as they share their personal journeys through their “special” education. They will outline strategies that have helped them compensate for their learning differences and will share insights about how to better support your children as they navigate their way through their education.

Elizabeth Lutsky received her undergraduate degree in psychology from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, and went on to earn her Masters degree in learning disabilities from Northwestern University. For the past 10 years Elizabeth has worked in private practice as an educational therapist helping children with language based learning disabilities to develop the skills and strategies needed to overcome their learning challenges. Throughout her career, Elizabeth has worked in various educational settings, including Summit View, as a special education teacher, learning specialist, and reading coach. She looks forward to continuing to help her clients become successful, independent learners.

Struggling with her own learning disabilities for the past 30 years, Lainie Donnell decided to embrace her challenges and help others to overcome their learning struggles. After receiving her undergraduate degree from the University of Vermont in psychology, Lainie went on to receive her Masters degree and teaching credential from California State University, Northridge in special education. Currently, Lainie is in private practice as an educational therapist helping students with language based learning disabilities. Previously, Lainie worked as a learning specialist and as a middle and high school teacher at Summit View. Lainie has found her way as a strong advocate and teacher for students with learning challenges.
